Area Coordinator, Residential Education

Thank you for your interest in The George Washington University (GW) and the Area Coordinator position. Living in the heart of the nation’s capital, blocks away from The White House, State Department and World Bank, presents incredible opportunities for our students, staff, and faculty. Being at GW provides unparalleled access to unique experiences known to Colonials as #OnlyAtGW moments.

The Center for Student Engagement (CSE) aims to enhance all aspects of the student experience at GW, including on-campus living, fraternity and sorority life, student organizations, outdoor adventure, off-campus and graduate students, as well as subpopulations such as first-generation or international students. Our CSE team is committed to leadership, community, advising and our own departmental excellence. We strive to serve not only our students, but also each other as colleagues.

We are enormously excited about the opportunities that lie ahead for the Residential Engagement staff. We recently created a new cross-functional team dedicated to the development of student-centered, research-driven training and on-going leadership development for all members of our residential staff. The Area Coordinator for Residential Education will have the unparalleled chance to impact the direction of Residence Education at GW.

This position’s portfolio will be split between responsibilities of a traditional Area Coordinator and those devoted to the training and development for all residential education within our department. As a part of this team, the Area Coordinator for Residential Education will be an integral piece of the following:

- Designing and coordinating both our fall and spring Resident Advisor trainings, along with on-going development sessions/forums for 110 RAs
- Researching, designing, and creating the course curriculum for GW’s inaugural RA Leadership Class; a required for-credit course held within the Graduate School of Education and Human Development
- Threading the University leadership curriculum into residential initiatives and student development
- Directly impacting the on-campus student experience, leadership development for all levels, and departmental and division culture.

Once again, thank you for your interest in the Center for Student Engagement. We hope you consider applying to join us at The George Washington University!
